Description: Sify Technologies Ltd., (www.sifytechnologies.com) is one of the largest integrated Information & Communication Technology (ICT) solutions and services companies in India, offering end-to-end solutions over a common telecom data network infrastructure. Sify's network reaches more than 1,550 cities in India and connects 45 data centers, including six owned Tier 3 data centers. Headquarters are in Chennai, India.

- Sify remained on a strong growth trajectory in 1Q:F23 with revenue increasing 19.5% year over year to $118.6 million, topping our $111.2 million forecast.
- Although revenue topped our estimate, EBITDA was just below our expectation, rising 5% $23.5 million, versus our $23.9 million forecast.
- Sify's main growth engine, its Data Center Services grew 56%. Given the growing demand for data center infrastructure and Sify's planned capacity expansion, we remain bullish on the growth potential of this part of Sify's business.
- To capitalize on the surging demand, Sify aims to triple its data center footprint over the next four years, spending $530 million to add 200 megawatts of capacity.
- Through a combination of third-party equity investments, debt and operating cash flow we think Sify has the liquidity to fund its ambitious growth investments.
- Given the company's track record of revenue and EBITDA growth, modest leverage and potential for further gains backed by strong secular trends, we think the stock is significantly undervalued, trading at just 4.7x and 3.7x our projected F2023 and F2024 EBITDA estimates.
- We maintain our price target of $7, which is based on 11x our F2024 EBITDA estimate of $140.3 million, less projected net debt of $257 million.
- Given the company's growth potential and modest leverage we maintain our Moderately Risky rating.

Revenue in 1Q:F23 beat our forecast. Revenue in 1Q:F23 grew 19.5% to $118.6 million, topping our $111.2 million forecast. Sify consolidates its Cloud and Managed services, Technology Integration Services, and Application Integration Services under the banner of its Digital Services segment which grew 1% in 1Q:F23, in line with our projection. The growing demand for data and high-speed bandwidth in India continues to drive strong demand for Sify's Network Service, which grew 10.5%, also in line with our expectations. The beat in the quarter was driven by better than projected growth from Sify's Data Center Services segment, where revenue increased 56% versus our 25% forecast. As Sify's consolidated gross margin was lower than we projected, the additional revenue likely came from lower-margin project work. That said, we remain bullish on the long-term growth potential of the high-margin (F2021 EBIT margin of 44%) service side of this business. The demand for data center infrastructure in India is growing exponentially, driven by the economy's digital transformation, the increasing adoption of cloud services and growing data consumption by an increasingly connected populous. Driven by Sify's Data Center and Network Services, we project revenue will grow 20% in F2023 and 14% in F2024.

1Q:F23 EBITDA was just below our forecast. The gross margin declined to 36.3% from 39.5% a year ago. Sify's margins vary depending on the revenue mix in a given quarter, with lower-margin project work in its Technology Integration Services typically driving quarterly variances. In this case, we think the variance came from Data Center Services segment, as the incremental revenue did not result in the type of incremental profit that would be expected from this high-margin business; this indicates the added revenue was likely lower-margin project work. So, despite the revenue beat, Sify's gross profit was less than we projected. However, we note management is maintaining a tight control on spending as the company ramps up its capital investments, as operating expenditures as a percentage of revenue declined and were lower than we projected. All in, EBITDA grew 5% to $23.5 million, which was just below our $23.9 million forecast. Net income declined 18% due to higher depreciation and interest expense tied to Sify's Data Center and network investments. However, this was better than we projected, as interest expense did not rise as much as we projected. EPS of $0.02 was also above our $0.01 estimate. While our timing might have been off, we still expect Sify's debt load and interest expense to rise in the coming quarters.

We remain bullish on the growth potential of Sify's Data Center Services. In India, the demand for data center infrastructure is growing exponentially, driven by the economy's digital transformation, the increasing adoption of cloud services and growing data consumption by an increasingly connected populous. We do not expect demand to slow. Indeed, the rollout of 5G technology, growth in IoT-linked devices, and growing requirement for data localization will only increase data volumes and the need for additional data center capacity. Moreover, the Indian government continues to indirectly support the industry's growth through its flagship Digital India program, which is meant to foster India's transformation into a digital economy, along with several initiatives that the government has launched to promote data localization. In addition, recognizing the critical nature of the industry and the need for more investment, earlier this year the Indian government (in its Budget 2022) provided the data center sector with 'infrastructure status', bringing it on par with industries such as Railways, Roadways, and Power. The new status will ease the process of securing long-term debt financing and simplify the clearances required to set up a data center in India.

Sify has financing in place to fund its Data Center and Network investments. In November of 2021 Sify received a $135 commitment from Kotak Special Situations Fund, managed by Kotak Advisors in the form of Compulsory Convertible Debentures; the first $55 million is committed and will be called by Sify in two tranches between the close of the agreement and March 31, 2023. Sify retains an option to call the remaining $80 million of capital between F2022 and F2025. In addition to this lower-cost source of capital, Sify ended 1Q:F23 with a net debt-to-TTM EBITDA ratio of 1.82x. We think the company has the capacity to tap the debt markets as needed, which should now be easier and less costly now that the Indian government has given the data center industry infrastructure status. We also project Sify will generate about $90 million of annual operating cash flow in F2023 and F2024, which will help fund a good portion of the $230 million of total capital spending we project in F2023-F2024.

Valuation	We maintain our price target of $7 on SIFY shares. The pandemic curbed economic growth in India for a short period, but did not change the long-term trajectory of the digital transformation of India's economy. We expect Sify will be a primary beneficiary of this transformation. With the stock trading at just 4.7x our projections on a F2023 EV/EBITDA basis, and 3.7x our F2024 forecast, SIFY is valued at a significant discount to peers in the India Telecom and application and technology integration market players group, which trade in a range of 8x-12x EV/EBITDA. Given Sify's historic track record of revenue and EBITDA growth and its potential for continued expansion, we think the stock deserves to trade at the high-end of the peer group range. Our $7 price target is based on 11x our F2024 EBITDA estimate of $140.3 million, less projected net debt of $257 million, to yield $1,286 million, or $7.25 on a per share basis. Given the company's growth potential and modest leverage, we maintain a Moderately Risky rating.

We maintain our price target of $7 on SIFY shares. The pandemic curbed economic growth in India for a short period, but did not change the long-term trajectory of the digital transformation of India's economy. We expect Sify will be a primary beneficiary of this transformation. With the stock trading at just 4.7x our projections on a F2023 EV/EBITDA basis, and 3.7x our F2024 forecast, SIFY is valued at a significant discount to peers in the India Telecom and application and technology integration market players group, which trade in a range of 8x-12x EV/EBITDA. Given Sify's historic track record of revenue and EBITDA growth and its potential for continued expansion, we think the stock deserves to trade at the high-end of the peer group range. Our $7 price target is based on 11x our F2024 EBITDA estimate of $140.3 million, less projected net debt of $257 million, to yield $1,286 million, or $7.25 on a per share basis. Given the company's growth potential and modest leverage, we maintain a Moderately Risky rating.
